

THE PATH TO TEAM USA THROUGH THE NTIS

The National Team Identification Series (NTIS) is one of two primary selection events for USA Baseball national teams and national team development programs. After a series of selection events run by USA Baseball Regional Directors, region teams will advance to the NTIS Champions Cup at the USA Baseball National Training Complex in August. During that event, USA Baseball scouts will select a predetermined number of players to advance to next year's national team programming.

NOTE: National Team Identification Series (NTIS) events select athletes for the following year's national team identification process. Exception: The 12U NTIS serves as an identification event for the present year's 12U National Team.
